Business English

Get them speaking through role-play

12. září 2011 od 11 do 12.30 hod (účast zdarma)

When asked what is most significant about learning English, most students will say that it is speaking. In business, speaking is one of the key skills used for communication, whether we are making a formal phone call, negotiating or having a job interview. This workshop focuses on how we can effectively use role-play to help learners of Business English become more accurate and more fluent speakers both in business situations and in real life.
