

SEMINARS

Macmillan Teacher
Development

Warmers and Coolers for Young adults and Adults

Without an effective start and a meaningful end a great lesson may not realise its full potential. In this workshop we will explore a number of short, enjoyable and communicative activities used as warmers to wake up, motivate and enthuse learners, and consider how coolers can be used effectively to wrap up and close a lesson. The warmers and coolers demonstrated in the workshop are versatile, and can be used in teaching both language and skills for all levels and abilities, with a view to making learning not just more fun, but also more productive.

When? 28. 8. 2014 at 13:00 a.m.

Opening The Mind: 21st century teaching

In order to succeed in today's competitive world, 21st century learners of English often need more than just good language skills. They need professional, academic and personal skills, such as having a better awareness of society, coping with the demands of learning, and dealing with challenges in their work. This session aims to show how we can teach English using highly practical contexts which help learners use their language and life skills to cope well with school, work and real life situations.

When? 28. 8. 2014 at 14:30 a.m.

Speaker: Daniela Clarke

Where? Moravská zemská knihovna, Kounicova 65a, Brno

Sign up at macmillan.cz/prihlaska.htm

---

Macmillan Teacher Development Macmillan Education, Šumavská 15, Brno, www.macmillan.cz, info@macmillan.cz, T 541 592 335