Join us to get hands on experience of web tools and practical ideas for integrating them into your teaching.
Come and help us untangle the web!

Since the “Read-Write” web (Web 2.0) burst onto the scene at the beginning of the millennium, the use of web technology in English language teaching has been a hot topic of discussion. As well as discussion, the advent of Web 2.0 brought with it a vast array of ready-made materials, resources, and tools. This wealth of possibilities now leaves us with a web in which a lack of familiarity makes it all too easy to get tangled.

The aim of this session is to allow participants to take a hands on look at 5 free web tools, which will help to motivate and engage learners, as well as complement course book material. During this practical training day participants will have the chance to familiarise themselves with and try out the various tools before considering how they can be integrated into teaching either for purposes of classroom presentation, classwork or to help with homework.

In order to help us run the session effectively we would like to ask you to bring a laptop or tablet computer with you to the training. If you do not have a portable device, don't worry there will still be plenty for you to interest you at the session.

Teacher trainers: Gareth Davies and Nikki Fořtová

Gareth Davies is a teacher and teacher trainer based in the Czech Republic. He has been in the EFL industry since 1995, teaching in the UK, Portugal and the Czech Republic. Between 2002 and 2007 he ran a Trinity CertTESOL course in Prague and since 2005 he has worked closely with Oxford University Press delivering teacher training around the world. He is the author of the teacher's guides for iTools for Project, Solutions and New Headway and has also contributed to several course books including New Horizons, Solutions and Business one:one.

Nikki Fořtová has been involved in English language teaching since 2002. After graduating from the University of Birmingham, she started pursuing her language teaching career first in the UK, and since 2005, the Czech Republic. Nikki is CELTA and DELTA qualified and is currently working as an English language teacher and teacher trainer at Masaryk University in Brno. As well as teaching and teacher training, she is interested in the application of technology to language learning and teaching.
